ALL WHO ARE TO PARTICIPATE IN IT ARE ON HAND.

Only Chance of Delay Lies in the Po Rejection of Rear Admiral Howison More Than 100 Witnesses - Taking Testimony May Consume Two Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 .- The heat of the controversy that has been waged for the st three years over the allegations concerning the conduct of Rear Admiral Schley in the West Indian naval campaign will find vent to-morrow in the assembling at the Washington Navy Yard of the Court of Inquiry appointed by the Secretary of the Navy at Admiral Schley's request to ascertain all the facts in connection with his command of the Flying Squadron and incidents growing out of his experiences off the south coast of Cuba. All those who are to participate in the opening of the inquiry are in town.

In naval circles the interest is intense Owing to the great improvement in President McKinley's condition there is no likeligood of a postponement on account of his liness, and the only chance of delay lies in the possible rejection of Rear Admiral Howison as a member of the Court. Should he be rejected the Navy Department may have difficulty in securing another member sufficient rank and wholly unobjection able to Admiral Schley. One of the men actively engaged in the case said to-night that a week's delay might be caused by the rejection of Admiral Howison. Interest centres in the known intention of Admiral Schley to challenge Admiral Howison, but it is believed that the matter will be disposed of before the court adjourns tonorrow evening

The court will assemble in the new gunners' work shop at the Washington yard at 1 P. M. to-day. There will be space enough to accommodate the court and its attachés, sixty newspaper reporters and 300 spectators. Admiral Dewey and colleagues, Rear Admirals Benham and Howison, will go to the yard in civilian ress and don their uniforms in the building where the inquiry will be held. When the court has assembled there will probably be an Admiral's salute fired, but beyond that there will be no ceremony. After the court has been called to order the precept convening it and outlining the scope of the inquiry will be read. the members will be sworn. When Admiral Howison is called to take the oath, Admiral Schley will personally challenge his right to serve and present a written state ment, saying that he has been reliably in formed tha Admiral Howison has ex pressed sentiments antagonistic to Admiral Schley and asking the court to in-vestigate them. Admiral Schley's counse vestigate them. Admiral Schley's counse will then ask that witnesses be called to testify that Admiral Howison was respon show that he is prejudiced against the officer under investigation. Should the court grant this request, Francis A. Frost, a reporter of the Boston Record will be called to testify that Admiral Howison made to him the statements concerning Admiral Schley, which, it is contended, make Adniral Howison incompetent to serve. additional witnesses are also to be on hand, one from Boston and the other from New York, to testify that they have heard Admiral Howison express sentiments similar to those attributed to him in the Boston Record. Admiral Schley's counsel will not see the property who these witnesses are. say to-night who these witnesses are Should the court decline to hear oral testi-mony and call for affidavits, Admiral Schley produce sworn statements of Mr Frost and the two men whose names have been discovered.

The supposition that the court must adjourn if Admiral Howison is found to be ineligible and the Navy Department fails to appoint his successor is not entirely correct. A court of inquiry may consist of only one member. In the event of Ad miral Howison's rejection it is within the province of Admiral Dewey and Rear Admiral Benham to proceed with the in-ourly without calling on the Navy Department to fill Admiral Howison's place. No-body appears to believe, however, that the inquiry will proceed with less than three members.

As its legal adviser, Capt. Lemly, the Judge Advocate, may retire with the court when it goes into executive session for consultation. This is permitted in courts of inquiry, but not in courts-martial. The Judge Advocate of these last named tribunals is a prosecuting officer, representing one side of the case. The Judge Advocate of a court of inquiry is not a prosecuting officer. His functions are to get all the facts before the court and assist its memfacts before the court and assist its mem-bers in determining legal questions, but he has no vote. It will not be surprising if he has no vote. It will not be surprising if objection is raised by Admiral Schley's counsel should Capt. Lemly retire with the court for consultation. The naval regulations on his right to do so are, however, regarded as specific.

Capt. Lemly will be assisted by Mr. E. P. Hanna, the solicitor of his office, who, it was said to-day, will do much of the examination and cross-examination of witnesses Mr. Hanna is a civilian. Ad-

it was said to-day, will do much of the examination and cross-examination of witnesses Mr. Hanna is a civilian. Admiral Schley's counsel are Judge Jeremiah M. Wilson of this city, a distinguished lawrer who has served in many notable cases, Isador Raynor of Baltimore, Attorney General of Maryland, and Capt. James Parker of Perth Amboy, N. J., who has had experience as counsel before naval courts. Judge Wilson and Mr. Raynor have served terms in the national House of Representatives, Judge Wilson from Indiana and Mr. Raynor from Maryland. Capt. Parker was a naval officer in the Civil War. Capt. Henry W. Carpenter of the Marine corps will be provost marshal of the court. He will be in command of the marine guard.

Stenographers will make a verbatim report of the testimony and proceedings, and arrangements have been made with the Government Printing Office for printed copies of each day's testimony to be ready when the court assembles on the following when the court assembles on the following

Predictions vary as to how long the court will be in session, but in view of the fact that about one hundred witnesses have been summoned, the taking of testings of testing the country of the country o nony aione is likely to consume two months Then the court must spend a considerable period of time in reviewing this testimony and the voluminous documentary evidence

After to-morrow the court will probably assemble at 10 A M. The officers composing it are believed to be in favor of two sessions of two hours each, ending at noon and at 3 P. M. with an hour's interval for luncheon. A continuous session of four hours is said to be more agreeable to Admiral Schley's counsel. The court will probably determine this matter toprobably determine this matter to-

SCHLEY COURT MEETS TO-DAY. CAPT. GANNON IS OUT OF TOWN. So Justice Jerome's Judicial Inquiry Temperarily Held Up.

Having raided Samuel Kohler's Raines law hotel at 141 East Seventeenth street at 1 o'clock yesterday morning on com-plaint of H. S. Conkling, one of the Committee of Fifteen's men who swore it was a disorderly house, Justice Jerome sent for Capt. Gannon of the East Twentysecond station at noon vesterday and learned that the captain had just left town on a twenty days' vacation. This raid upon the very morning of the captain's departure doubtless surprised Gannon, who swore a couple of weeks ago that as Lizzie Mack's Webster House had been raided by the Justice, there was not a single disorderly house, poolroom, gambling room or other unlawful place left in his precinct. Capt. Gannon was in the Webster House when it was raided. Owing to Gannon's absence from town, ustice Jerome's judicial inquiry into the affairs of the captain's precinet was abruptly postponed yesterday and will not be resumed until Gannon returns. It was also due to Gannon's absence that Lizzie Mack's hearing was postponed yesterday to Sept. 30, as the captain had neglected to put his signature to the transcript of s testimony the day following the raid. The blotter of the West Thirtieth street dice station was studied in the District torney's office to find out what Wardman Edward F. Glennon has been busying himself about since Jan. 1 last. The study was not over when darkness came yester-day, and at that time no entry of an arrest having been made by Glennon had been

PANA ANARCHISTS REJOICE. Meeting Broken and the Leader Put Under

Arrest-Attempt at Rescue. PANA, Ill., Sept. 11.-The Anarchists of Pana, of which there is a large member ship, attempted to hold a meeting last night to rejoice over the attack made upon President McKinley. The meeting was near the Union station. Some of the members became engaged in a fight among hemselves, which drew the attention of the police, which drew the attention of the police, who were not long in finding out the situation.

Gustave Aldrich, supposed to be the leader of the organization, was arrested, and on the way to the station his sym-pathizers undertook to rescue him from the police. Aldrich was lodged in jail. As Dr. Eberspacher was preparing to give medical attention the prisoner resumed his denunciation of President McKinley. Upon hearing this, the doctor refused

HOW TONINICO GOT EVEN. Cut the Throat of the Man Who Married His Sweetheart.

Pella Toninico of 599 East Eighty-fourth street satisfied a ten-year-old grudge last night when he cut John Alfonzo's throat after first buying him a drink to allay suspicion.

The men were friends in Italy until John married Pella's girl ten years ago and brought her to this country. Pella came over the other day, and after getting a job and earning enough money to buy a new razer and two drinks set out to find John. He found him last night up in The Brona at 184th street and Hoffman avenue, and that's where the drinking and cutting occurred.

SCREWS PUT ON INFORMER.

HAYMAN, RAID INSTIGATOR, NOW IN LUDIOW STREET JAIL.

Arrested in a Civil Suit on a Judgmen Obtained Last April After He Had Refused to "Fix" His Complain Against O'Keefe's Poolroom -- Watched

Thomas E. Hayman, the hay merchant on whose complaint Samuel J. O'Keefe's thriving poolroom at 29 West Thirty-fourth street, nearly opposite the Waldorf-Astoria, was raided, a week ago yesterday, is locked up in Ludlow Street Jail. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon in his apartments at Broadway and Eighty-fifth street by City Marshall Lee on a body execution sued on a judgment in favor of Judson H. Grant, a real estate dealer with an office in the Park Row Building The judgment, which Hayman says was obtained by default last April owing to his sickness, is for the alleged conversion of $325 to Hayman's own use. He says he expects to get out of jail on a writ of habeas corpus to-day and will make it warm for several persons He thinks it a remarkable coincidence hat this body execution should be served just now, especially after one of the poolroom men had invited him to see Lawyer Charles H. Machin, whose office is at 206 Broadway and who, Hayman says, is Grant's lawyer. Grant, he says, is a friend of Hayman expected something to happen to him because of that raid, he says, and he glad that nothing worse has occurred than his arrest in a civil suit. He was arrested late in the afternoon, and after he reached the jail he sent for Assistant District Attorney Garvan and Justice Jerome, but they were so busy sending out raiding parties that they couldn't respond to Hay man's summons just then. They took the matter up yesterday and expect to find out why Hayman has been arrested just now. The hay merchant says he lost several hundred dollars in the poolroom. Before he made his complaint to Justice Jerome he went to Capt. Flood, in whose precinct the poolroom is, and asked the captain's aid to get his money back. Flood sent him to the Jefferson Market police court, where the clerk told him that his affidavit about the poolroom would have to be corroborated before a warrant could issue, which was the clerk's mistake. Two days later Justice Jerome issued a warrant on Hayman's affidavit, and the place in which Thomas L. Reynolds, "Honest" John Kelly's assignee, had a desk was raided by Parkhurst agents.

That was on Sept. 4. On the next day Hayman received a letter from Lawyer Machin saying "Please call and see me to-morrow without fail." Hayman says he sent word to Mr. Machin that he couldn't him until Monday. Last Thursday evening a man whom he knew as "Freddy and who, he thinks, was O'Keefe's cashie net him at Eighty-fifth street and Amster

"Can't we fix this thing up?" said the man, 'You know, as long as you press your complaint O'Keefe can't open up his place again. Won't you see our lawyer, ex-Assistant District Attorney O'Hare! ex-Assistant District Attorney O Hare!
Hayman says he refused to see O'Hare and then "Freedy" asked him to see Lawyer Machin. Hayman told him that he expected to see Mr. Machin on Monday but that he would take a friend along as a witness. The conversation, Hayman says, was friendly and there was no offer of ey by the poolroom emissary nor suggestion of a threat. But after went away men appeared who watched his apartments.

Hayman went to the Knickerbocker Theatre that night with a friend. When he came out he saw O'Keefe and a man who Hayman thinks was Reynolds, standing on the corner at Broadway and Fortyfirst street. O'Keefe recognized him and first street. O'Keefe recognized him and pointed him out to his companion and Hayman says they followed him up Broad-way and O'Keefe motioned to him to stop and talk but Hayman refused.

Except for the continuance of the espionage on his apartment Hayman says that nothing happened to him until Tuesday. He didn't go to see Mr. Machin on Monday. On Tuesday he was in the Court of Special Sessions and when he reached home he had a call from a messenger from Lawyer E. E. Steubenvol who had been his counsel in the judgment proceedings. The messenger said that Mr. Steubenvol wanted to see Hayman, but simultaneously with the delivery of the message the doorbell range. delivery of the message the doorbell rang and Marshal Lee appeared. The Marshal was greatly moved at the sight of Mr. Steubenvol's messenger

"Were you trying to tip him off?" he "He was not." said Hayman. "Let's "He was not," said Hayman. "Let's have no noise. What do you want?"
"To serve this execution on you, replied Lee. He served it and Hayman went to jail. He says he sent for Lawyer Steubenvol, but received no response.
"Last April I wanted him to apply for a reopening of the judgment against me," said Hayman last night, but the representative to whom he delegated the task failed to accomplish it. I made Grant's sentative to whom he delegated the task failed to accomplish it. I made Grant's acculationate two years ago when I saw an 'ad' of his in a newspaper, and I borrowed money of him from time to time to use in the money of him from time to time to use in the hav business.

"He was to get back the principal and part of the profits, and he got back the principal and more than 25 per cent interest on his money. In fact, he's had more than the $325 and 25 per cent, interest. When he got the judgment against me I told him that I wouldn't pay it and to get a body execution if he thought best. That was last April and he didn't think best. Now he's done it. Ordinarily I'm pretty calm, but I confess that I'm rattled having these poolroom folks after me." having these poolroom folks after me.

GIRL TURNS AGAINST MOTHER. Opposes in Court Parent's Attempt to Get

Her Back From Uncle and Aunt. In obedience to a writ of habeas corpus Bernard Woolf and his wife, Celia Woolf, of 371 Hoyt street, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Herrick in Brooklyn yester-day with their thirteen-year-old niece, Sadie Green. Mrs. Sophie Jacobs, the girl's mother, procured the writ in order to get possession of her daughter, who has been in the care of her uncle and aunt since she was 2 years old.

The Woolfs testified that Sadie had been carefully brought up by them, that she was anxious to remain with them and that her mother had not shown much interest in her. Sadie herself took the stand and emphatically declared that she did not want to go back to her mother. "She left me," she said, eleven years ago with my aunt, who has been a mother to me ever since. I don't think mother's house is the proper place for me. I have heard language there not fit to be used on the sidewalk." Justice Herrick dismissed the writ and told the girl that she could stay where she was.

TROLLEY WHEEL HIT HIM. It Broke From Trolley Pole and Knocked a Passenger Senseless.

Morris Adler, President of the Beard of Managers of the Brooklyn Disciplinary Training School for Boys, was severely injured while riting downtown from his home, 816 Putnam avenue, in a trolley car on Tuesday afternoon. The trolley wheel jumped the wire and the pole struck a cross supporting wire, breaking the trolley at-tachment. The steel wheel fell and struck Mr. Adler on the head, knecking him senseless and inflicting a bad scalp wound.

FAT FOR HORGAN & SLATTERY. The Tammany Architects to Supervi the New Hall of Records.

Tammany put through its scheme yes terday for giving the fat contract of supervising architect for the new Hall of Records which is to cost $6,000,000, to Horgan & Slattery. John R. Thomas, who was the supervising architect of the building died two weeks ago. Tammany let it be known at once that it intended to have the building completed by Horgan & Slattery. The estate of Mr. Thomas served notice on Comptroller Coler that it intended to pretect its rights in the matter, and asked for time to look up the law. Mayor Van Wyck doesn't intend that the state shall have any time if he can help After the calendar was cleaned up at the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, he handed a typewritten resolution to the clerk under which Horgan &Slattery were appointed.Comptroller Coler said that he had had a call from ex-Comp troller Ashbel P. Fitch, who was in office when the contract was awarded, and that he had promised Mr. Fitch that no action would be taken until the estate had had time for a conference with its attorney. "I am not prepared to vote at this time," said President Guggenheimer of the Council, "I think it would be wise to wait until we know what the rights of the estate are." The construction of the building is going, said the Mayor. It ought to be super-ed. The courts have decided that when a man under contract to the city dies the contract becomes null and void. Practi-cally all that was due to Mr. Thomas has een paid."

"That's true," said Comptroller Coler, only a few thousand dollars is involved."
"Call the roll on my resolution," said the Mayor. The Mayor, Acting Corporation Counsel Connoly and President Feitner of the Department of Taxes, voted in the affirmative. President Guggenheimer and Comptroller Coler voted in the negative.

SIX FIREMEN OVERCOME. Caught in a Back Draft While Fighting Cellar Fire.

Six firemen were overcome by smoke last evening in a cellar fire at 862 Broadway The building is occupied by Herbert L. Greenbaum, a dealer in rugs and antiques. When Policeman Sloyne passed at 6 o clock he saw smoke coming from the cellar When the firemen arrived there weren't any flames but there was plenty of smoke. Lines of hose were run into the cellar out it was so dark there that the firemen couldn't tell where to throw the water Several men were ordered to break in from the rear extension. They cut holes and knocked in windows in the rear of the build-ing which started a back draft. The fireing which started a back draft. The fre-men, holding the hose in the front of the cellar got the benefit of it. Those nearest the front cellar door staggered to the street unassisted. Several fell and had to be

Those overcome by the smoke were Firemen Jones, Harris and McGrockin of Engine 16, Maguire and Parsell of Engine 72, and Carl Miller of Engine 14. Ambulances were sent for and the New York Hospital and Bellevue responded. Once in the fresh air the men recovered quickly and none of them was obliged to go to the

The fire was quickly extinguished after the cellar had been freed of smoke. The blaze started in the extension near some packing boxes. The damage is placed at $2,500.

MUSTN'T SHOOT THE "FLICKER." He's a Woodpecker in New Jersey, the

Fish and Game Commissioners Decide. That the "flicker," or "high-holder," is a woodpecker and cannot be killed has been settled by the Board of Fish and Game Commissioners of New Jersey, of which H. P. Frothingham is President. The fourth section of the general fish and game laws of the State provides that flickers may be killed during the months of September and October, but the section immediately succeeding makes it unlawful to kill woodpeckers excepting the sapsuckers at any time. In a pamphlet that Mr Frothingham has had issued, he says:

For many years we have striven to have a uniform open and close season as far as possible. We have attained this now, the general open season being the months of November and December. To permit the shooting of flickers or any other kind of birds in September and October would mean a great destruction of other kinds of game, for it would be used as a warrant for every violator of the law to be in the woods during those months. It is true that the law permits the killing of woodcock in October, but woodcock are to be found in swamps and marshy piaces and not where woodpeckers make their homes. I believe that a man who would shoot the useful flicker would shout a quail on its nest. I am glad that the Legislature did not succeed in its attempt to legalize the slaughter of one of the most useful of our wild birds and I sincerely hope that the next Legislature will wipe out every evidence of any such attempt ever having been made."

MANY BEQUESTS TO CHARITY. His Estate to Institutions.

Boston, Sept. 11.—The will of the late Charles H. Hayden, which was filed for probate to-day, makes outright bequests aggregating $250,000 and divides the residue of a large estate among several institutions. The Massachusetts General Hospital receives $100,000 for the establishment of a free bed and the maintenance of the institution. The Museum of Fine Arts gets $100,000 for the purchase of a collection of modern paintings to bear the testator's name. The sum of $50,000 goes to the Childrens' Hospital on Huntington avenue, and a similar sum to the Massachusetts Eye and Ear

Infirmary
Several private bequests are made and the residue—the estate is to be divided between seven charitable and philanthropic bodies. Mr. Hayden was formerly engaged in the wall paper business, and it is esti-mated that his estate is worth $500,000.

FIGHTING IN COLOMBIA. Government and Rebels Both Claiming

Victories Trouble With Ecuador. Seflor Arturo de Brigard, the Colombian Consul-General, received a communication yesterday from Gen. Jaime Cordova, Governor of Cauca, telling of a Government victory at Puenta Piedra over the rebel forces of Gen. Barriga and also of the defeat of the insurgent leader. Gen. Marin at La Piedras. In the latter engagement Gen. Cordova says, the revolutionists lost 200 men. Gen. Edua rdo Vasquez of the Government army was killed in this battle He was one of the wealthiest and most influential citizens of Antioquia. According another defeat at El Helechal in the Department of Santander, in which one of their chiefs was killed and another taken prisoner.

Ecuador is expected. He charges that the President of Ecuador is supplying arms and ammunition to the revolutionists commanded by Gen. Avelino Rosas, for ourpose. The Governor of Cauca adds:

manded by Gen. Aveilino Rosas, for this purpose. The Governor of Cauca adds:
"In a short time we shall have nearly 20,000 men under arms in this department."
The information that came to the local representatives of the rebellion, gives an entirely different aspect to the state of affairs. This news tells of a battle fought at Macueque in the Department of Boyaca, which is the biggest fight reported thus far from the interior. The Government division under Gen. Moya Vasquez, Governor of Boyaca, to the number of 3,000, attacked the intrenched force of 1,000 rebels led by Gen. Benito Hernandez, with the result, according to the rebels, that the former were repulsed with great loss Besides were repulsed with great loss Besides this, the insurgents secured ten pack mules, earrying about 20,006 cartridges. The carrying about 20,006 cartridges. The scene of this engagement is a strongly strategic point and it is said that it will require an army or more than 5,000 to rout the Liberals from their intrenchments. Gen. Rafael Uribe Uribe, chief of the main army of rebeis, is now said to be in Santander with 6,000 men. His plan now is to engage the enemy from the front, while Gen. Hernandez and another force under Gen. Polydoro Ardilla, from Ocafia, bring up the rear, thus practically surrounding the principal Government detachment. Gen Uribe has been joined by dechment. Gen Uribe has been joined by Gen. Pedro Rodriquez, who sailed from here on the steamer Maracaibo a short time ago. Gen. Joaquin M. Robeles is reported to have won three battles in the Department of Bolivar. The insurgents now control the entire Department with the exception of the ports of Barranquilla and Cartagena. As these are guarded by only 400 and 200 troops respectively, it is asserted that they can be taken whenever it is considered expedient.

THE COLOMBIAN INSURRECTION. Rebels Command Bocas Del Toro With

Guns-Raids Along Panama Railread. From THE SUN Correspondent at Color COLON, Sept. 3.-Political troubles have by no means ceased in this quarter. The insurgents continue to hold Old Bank, an island within half a mile of Bocas del Toro, and although Government troops were sent there over a week ago no attempt was made to dislodge them. The small American steamboat Sunrise arrived here on Friday last from Bocas del Toro, bringing a call for a further detachment of soldiers, and on the following day she left here on her return voyage, taking fifty men, but on the protest of the steamer's agent at this port, who did not collect any passage money, some of the crew refused to proceed

The insurgents at Old Bank are reported to number about 250 men, having two cannon, which they have mounted on comnon, which they have monited on commanding positions, and are said to be fully supplied with arms and aromunition.

Raids continue to be made along the line of the Canama Railroad, the section of Taberviella having been visited last week and some of the retail stores looted as usual.

At the town of Barranduilla a large quantity of the commandiation of the retail stores looted as usual.

At the town of Barranquilla a large quantity of arms was discovered buried near the cemetery.

Two American officers for the gunboat Pinzon arrived by the steamer Finance from New York and will proceed to Savanilla, where the steamer is lying, and there join her. It is probable the Pinzon will be sent to Bocas del Toro should the insurgents not take to the bush when attacked by the Government forces.

OUR INTERESTS NOT IN DANGER. South American Situation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 - The Navy Department has received a report by mail from Commander Sargent of the gunboat Machias, dated at Colon, on the Isthmus of Panaran, in regard to the political situation in the vicinity. He confirmed his statements, sent by telegraph, that American interests were not in danger and that internal disturbances in Colombia were not in evidence, but expressed the opinion that Colombia and Venezuela were dangerously near war, and were not taking any measures to avert a conflict.

QUICKLY DECIDED TO MARRY. During Dinner Couple Made Up Their Minds to Wed Forthwith and Did So.

ALBANY, Sept. 11.-Henry W. Curtis and Ernestine E. Calvert were married here last night. Mr. Curtis, who is 23 years old and an automobile builder, and Miss Calvert were both members of a party that came to Albany from Stockbridge Mass to see the automobile endurance race. After the finish of the race Mr. Curtis and Miss Calvert decided to dine together. During the dinner he proposed marriage and was accepted. An immediate marriage ceremony was decided upon, and the couple, finishing their dinner quickly, drove to the City Building in Mr. Curtis's automobile. There was no one present who could perform the ceremony, but Justice Severance was sent for and the courtroom was lighted up in honor of the unusual event. In the presence of two Albany witnesses and a few interested onlookers Miss Calvert became Mrs. Curtis. The newly wedded couple rejoined the other members of the party and announced their marriage. At first it was thought that they were joking, but the party soon became convinced that the couple were married and then extended congratulations. The couple will spend their honeymoon during the next two weeks mony was decided upon, and the couple their honeymoon during the next two weeks journeying to Stockbridge in Mr. Curtis's
